Canada in Brief

CANADA, from the Iroquois Kanada cabin, is rather a misnomer for a country of such vastness, covering more than half the continent of North America, and reaching from the latitude of Southern Europe to the North Pole, having a circuitous coast line upon the Atlantic of 10,000 miles, and upon the Pacific, with its deep inlets, many islands and secure harbors of almost as great length, extending upwards of 3,000 miles from east to west, and 1,600 miles from north to south, and comprising an area of 3,745,574 square miles, exceeding that of the United States (including Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands) by 5,640 square miles; a country nearly equal to the whole of Europe and embracing one-third of the British Empire. A country concerning the farm lands of which, in its Western Provinces alone, it has been suggested that if it were possible to convert their area into a strip of a mile in width, and a railroad constructed thereon, it would take a train travelling night and day without stop, at a speed of 40 miles per hour, a period of four years to complete the journey from terminus to terminus. Its first reputed discovery antedates Columbus by several hundred years, the Norseman Bjarni Herjulfson sighting its coasts in 986, followed by Lief Ericson in 1000; but John Cabot in 1497, and Jacques Cartier in 1734 were the first effectual explorers. Though abundantly able to sustain a population of 100,000,000, the present inhabitants number but 7,000,000, which are, however, being rapidly augmented by emigration from Europe and the Western States. Ontario numbers 2,250,000, Quebec 1,750,000, the Maritime Provinces 1,000,000, and the Western Provinces 1,000,000.

The poetic name of "C" - Lady of the Snows " is likewise manifestly erroneous for a land which lies largely in the Temperate Zone, and possesses a climate ranging from the clear, dry, bracing winters and summer heat of the St. Lawrence Valley, to the delightful evenness of the Pacific Coast. A country of diversified Flora and Fauna, abounding in many valuable fur-bearing animals, embracing the greatest forest region of the world, yielding untold millions of feet of the finest lumber annually; a land of vast mineral resources, possessing the Gold of the Klondike and the Silver of Cobalt, the immense Coal fields of Nova Scotia, British Columbia and the newer Western Provinces; almost the monopoly of Asbestos, great quantities of Nickel, Iron, Lead, Petroleum and Salt, as well as Gypsum, Graphite, Pyrites, Mica, Lime and Marl; possessing fisheries yielding many millions of dollars annually, and millions upon millions of acres of richly cultivated farm lands, producing fruit and grains famous the world over, and giving sustenance to stock having an enviable reputation for the purity of its breeds; and yet millions upon millions of other acres, the virgin soil of which is year by year being broken to swell the production of mountains of golden grain; manufactories of bewildering variety, the products of which find their way to the marts of the uttermost parts of the globe; natural water power of inestimable value, of which the Niagara and Ottawa are but examples; unequalled transportation facilities afforded by great natural waterways, supplemented by complete canal systems and gigantic transcontinental railroads; an ever-expanding commerce; an elastic and stable banking system; high moral and commercial standards; splendid facilities for public school and higher education, the former of which is compulsory; equitable laws, impartially administered, and private rights safeguarded; the quiet, peaceful possession of all this vast heritage of immeasurable wealth guaranteed beneath the spreading folds of the Union Jack! The contemplation causes the blood to pulsate more rapidly through our veins, while we feel commendable satisfaction with our happy lot, and thankfulness to the Beneficent Providence which has permitted us, either by birth or adoption, to claim a share in the future of this great land and all that is implied in the name "Canadian."—Capt. J. W. Fuller, London, Canada.

CANADIAN GAME LAWS

The following general schedule of the close seasons for Game in the various provinces of the Dominion will be of interest to sportsmen and others. Attention is however called to the fact that almost every session of the Legislatures witnesses more or less changes in existing regulations, so that the prospective hunter will do well to supplement this general information by calling upon the Game Warden of the locality wherein he proposes to operate for the latest published regulations each season. Licenses must also be obtained in most provinces for the privilege of killing many kinds of game, the fee for which is nominal to residents, but higher to non-residents.

How to Read the Weather

THE term "Meteorology" was first applied to the study of atmospheric phenomena, a study which by and other profound thinkers considered to be well worthy of their attention, but though this branch of science has received a considerable share of attention from both learned and unlearned men in all ages, it is only in more recent years that the systematic and practical application of observations has become general through the meteorological bureaus which nearly all civilized countries now maintain. But while weather forecasts are daily broadcast throughout the length and breadth of this great Dominion, they are not always available at the desired moment, and the following hints as to how to read the weather for one's self will be found interesting.

To the well-instructed eye the sky is an open book. That this was conceded by the few is evidenced by Christ's words, "When it is evening ye say, 'It will be fair weather, for the sky is red,' and in the morning, 'It will be foul weather to-day, for the sky is red and lowering.' To these time honored portents may be added: A gray sky in the morning betokens fine weather; a dawn high in the sky, wind, or low, fair weather; soft delicate looking clouds, presage fine weather; hard out-looking clouds of a dark gloomy blue sky spell wind; a bright blue sky, fine weather; the softer the clouds the less wind; the harder, more rolled and rugged the higher wind. Faky clouds mean rain; light swelling clouds, wind, and if followed by heavy masses, rain; streaks and curls of clouds increasing indicate wind and rain; the higher and more distant the clouds the longer deferred but the more lasting the approaching change. Delicate indefinite clouds accompany fine weather, while hard massed clouds with glaring colors, denote rain and strong winds. Misty, hanging clouds descending presage wind and rain, or rising predict fine weather. Dew and fog foretell fine weather, while clear air and twinkling stars indicate coming wind and rain. When distant objects in the landscape take on a bluish tint, wet, stormy weather may be expected, while a grey brownish tint in the distance promises clearing weather.

As a general rule if there is a sudden rise in temperature we may look for a storm from the north, or if it falls suddenly a southerly storm is imminent.

LONDON STREET RAILWAY

The most convenient and at once rapid, cheap and pleasant method by which to obtain a comprehensive and panoramic survey of the "Forest City" is afforded in a trip over the lines of the splendid up-to-date Electric Railway System by which every part of the community is efficiently served.

Starting from the centre of the city at the intersection of Dundas and Richmond Streets, to which point all lines converge, and proceeding on a Belt Line car south and west via Richmond, Horton and Ridout Streets and across the river we enter London South, one of the principal residential sections, and for several miles progress along delightfully wooded streets lined with well kept lawns and attractive homes, large and small, and in fitting by the intersecting avenues catch vistas equally alluring. The Ontario Normal School and also several churches are passed en route, and as the circuit is completed the Power House of the Railway is passed and the return to Richmond Street accomplished. Travelling north Office, Custom House, St. Paul's Episcopal and St. Peter's Roman Catholic cathedrals and other noteworthy structures.

Turning east on Central Avenue we skirt Victoria Park and pass many more handsome residences, and continuing south on Adelaide obtain a view of the Adelaide Street Baptist Church as we reach Dundas Street along which we travel westward, passing the Dundas Centre Methodist and Congregational Churches, the Convent of the Sacred Heart and the Armouries and finally reach Richmond Street at our starting point, some thirty-five minutes having been occupied in the run.

SPRINGBANK CAR

neighborhood of Huron College, and continue north to Mount Hope coming within view of the Hellmuth College buildings. Street, as far as Oxford, along which we proceed eastward and gain an idea of that part of the city lying to the north, catching a glimpse of Wolsey Barracks the home of the London Company of the Royal Canadian Regiment. Down Richmond again, past the C. P. R. station and continuing south and east to the Hamilton Road, we cover this to the far eastern limits then return to Richmond and Dundas once more.

Having completed the tour of the city lines, we are now ready to board a Springbank car for the popular riverside resort. A delightful four mile ride it is, skirting for a great portion of the way the bank of the river Thames and affording a splendid panoramic view of hill and dale, meadow and woodland, with the silver band of the river winding and sparkling in the midst reminding us that we are passing through no mean portion of the "Garden of Canada." Passing Woodland Cemetery, the city waterworks pumping station and reservoir, we are soon in the heart of the famous park with its sloping lawns, cool groves, pavilion, tennis ball grounds and all the accessories which go to complete the ideal breathing spot, where we gladly alight to wander it will down the shaded walks and along the rippling river as a fit climax to a delightful season of sightseeing.

Now boarding a South Street Belt car we go east on Dundas Street and beyond Adelaide pass the flourishing retail business places of the East End. Passing south on Rectory, the Grand Trunk Car Works and Round house, and other industrial establishments are noted. Neat residences are the accompaniment as we pass westward on the Hamilton Road and on South Street, where we obtain a good view of Victoria Hospital and returning to Richmond Street are soon at the corner of Dundas again. From here we go directly east on a Dundas car to the suburb of Pottersburg, passing Queen's Park with its Exhibition buildings and the Provincial Asylum for the Insane with its beautiful grounds surrounding. Returning the length of Dundas Street we cross Richmond and continuing westward past the Court House and over the river by means of another bridge traverse the thriving section of West London. Making the return trip to the corner of Richmond and Dundas we proceed on a Wellington St. car to the southern portion of the city proper, crossing the river by a third bridge. On the return journey we go northward on Richmond to St. James Street, by which we cross to Wellington in the

Returning we again travel to the north by way of Richmond

LONDON IN A PARAGRAPH

JUST as London, England, is the centre of the world's commerce, so London, Canada, is the commercial metropolis of Western Ontario. Situated, as it is, in the midst of a magnificent agricultural district and possessed of unrivalled railroad facilities, it is perhaps but natural that this city should become the distributing centre for this whole western peninsula. But these circumstances alone cannot account for the transformation from the single log shanty erected by Peter McGregor in 1826 to the present thriving city of some 15,000 souls, with her manufactures of exhaustive variety which are such veritable hives of industry; her numerous wholesale houses keeping constantly upon the road a small army of keen, alert travellers whose operations are by no means confined to the western section, but extend even far beyond the limits of the province; her hundreds of prosperous retail merchants; and her miles upon miles of deeply shaded streets lined with comfortable homes, ranging from the palatial residences of the merchant princes to the snug, neat cottages of the thrifty artisans, of which latter, be it remarked, a larger percentage own their homes than perhaps any other Canadian community; her magnificent public institutions, her splendid educational facilities, her secure financial enterprises, her commodious church edifices, and her beautiful Springbank, Victoria and Queen's Parks (comprising 321 acres in all), the latter the home of her famous Western Fair; and her excellent electric street railway system, affording rapid and convenient access to all portions of the city, business and residential, as well as to the public parks and other points of interest. All these and much more are the product not so much of natural advantages, but of the indomitable energy and civic patriotism which has ever been the characteristic of her citizens and which holds loyal to the old home all who have been numbered among her residents, a striking evidence of which is afforded in the far-famed Old Boys' Re-union to which ever increasing cohorts gather from the extremes of a continent eager to traverse the familiar streets, and proud to announce themselves as exiles returning for a brief space to no mean city, even into London, "The Forest City" in the midst of the "Garden of Canada."

DIRECTIONS FOR GIVING FIRE ALARM

Break the glass which covers the key. Unhook and open outside door. Then return and if you do not hear the little gong make striking then pull down the hook as far as it will go, once only and let it go back to its place. If you do hear the gong striking, wait until it is done, then shut the outside door tight and unlock and open it again and pull hook down as above. If possible wait until the firemen arrive and direct them to the fire, if it is not visible.

Right Use of Canadian Air

"As free as the air" is a proverbial expression, and nothing is more essential to health and happiness than this one great natural product, which no trust or combine has or will ever be able to monopolize, and yet nothing, perhaps, is more neglected than the proper use thereof. As evidence of this it is affirmed that in the average human being the lungs, the main organ of respiration, are far from being developed to their full capacity. What wonder then that the "White Plague" makes such progress in our midst? and what more efficient means, infinitely in advance of the building of sanatoriums to stay its ravages, than by the proper development of these most important organs and thus increase the reactive power of the individual? To attain this end the following suggestions will be found of value.

BREATHE PURE AIR. Briefly, the purpose of respiration is to absorb into the blood the life giving oxygen from the atmosphere, and to throw off the poisonous carbonic acid gas which is constantly being generated in the human body. It is therefore of the utmost importance that the air we breathe shall be pure, containing the largest percentage of oxygen and a minimum of carbonic acid gas, hence an outdoor life is the most healthful, and everyone should strive to secure from one to two hours out of the twenty-four at the very least in the open air, (to persons with weak lungs this is imperative) while the periods within doors should be spent in large and well ventilated rooms.

BREATHE THROUGH THE NOSE. It is stated that while primitive man as typified in the savage races invariably breathes through his nose, almost fifty per cent. of the denizens of highly civilized communities breathe through the mouth. As the purpose of the nose in respiration is to act as a filter, clarifying and warming the air before it passes into the lungs, and barring out the particles of dust, microbes, etc., the importance of always inspiring through it is obvious.

CARRY THE HEAD ERECT AND SHOULDERS BACK. When the head and shoulders droop, the upper part of the lungs are cramped interfering with their full and natural action.

TAKE FULL, DEEP INSPIRATIONS. Short, shallow breathing exercises the upper part of the lungs only, while deep, regular breaths bring their every part into play with manifold benefit to the entire system.

EXPIRATION SHOULD BE FULL AND REGULAR. Irregular and spasmodic action should be avoided just as carefully in expiration as in inspiration.

BREATHING EXERCISE. in the open air for a few minutes daily, giving strict attention to the foregoing cardinal rules will be found very beneficial, while their general observance throughout the day should be cultivated.

SLEEP IN A WELL VENTILATED ROOM. When it is considered that out of one hundred parts of oxygen inspired, but thirty-three are absorbed in the twelve hours of day and night during the twelve of night, it will be readily seen that pure air breathed at night is even more important than in the day-time. The window of a sleeping room should be let down from the top, summer and winter, avoiding a draught over the bed, a kerosene lamp should never be left burning; plants should be rigidly excluded and featherbeds tabooed.

EAT PLENTY OF GOOD, WHOLESOME FOOD. Milk and eggs are most nourishing. Apples and grapes are wholesome fruits, while fresh fish and meats in moderation are beneficial.

CHEW ALL FOOD THOROUGHLY BEFORE SWALLOWING. Fast eating is a deadly evil, and nothing should be allowed to interfere with the thorough mastication of the food, which is a most important part of the digestive process. For this purpose are we given teeth, which are worthy of every care and should be thoroughly cleaned after each meal.

CULTIVATE CHEERFULNESS AND ESCHEW WORRY. This last needs no enlarging upon as its importance is surely patent to all.

The general careful and intelligent observance of the above suggestions is guaranteed to produce in this bracing Canadian climate a percentage of contentments equal to any spot upon the globe.

Canadian Summer Resorts

THE facilities afforded within the bounds of this broad Dominion for summer tours and holiday jaunts are so many and varied that none need be tempted to stray beyond our own borders in quest of change and recreation. Indeed the fame of Canadian summer resorts is such, that literally thousands of American visitors annually cross the line to participate in their delights and to breathe in the health giving ozone of our northern latitudes.

Many of these summer visitors throng to what is known as the "Highlands of Ontario", a general term applied to the mountain and lake regions in the northern part of Ontario reached via The Grand Trunk Railway System, and which is subdivided into districts known by the names of the various chains of smaller lakes which nestle among the spurs of the Laurentian, veritable gems of beauty forming inviting retreats for the tired denizens of the bustling cities. The Muskoka Lakes are possibly the more popular; but the Lake of Bays, Kawartha Lakes, Lake Couchiching, Lake Nipissing and the French River all have their distinctive features and no lack of patrons, while summer cottages and hotels are everywhere in evidence. Bright skies, sparkling waters, lovely woodland and pure air form idyllic surroundings, while fluttering flags, glancing sails, bustling motor launches and larger passenger steamers with their loads of gay pleasure seekers add life and interest to the scene. The Georgian Bay with the thousands upon thousands of islands scattered over its broad bosom some forming entrancing fairy bowers and others bold, rugged and grandly forbidding, attract other throngs, while the Algonquin National Park and the famous Temagami region draws the Nimrods and disciples of Izaak Walton from the extremes of a continent.

The glories of the Canadian Horseshoe Falls at Niagara have world wide fame and call for no enlargement here, while the beauties of the Ottawa and its valley and the pleasures of the St. Lawrence route, affording opportunity of drinking in the ethereal loveliness of the Thousand Islands; the exciting dash through the Lachine Rapids, the splendors of Montreal; the view from the river of the mighty natural fortifications and the frowning citadel of Old Quebec; the broader reaches of the lower river; Riviere du Loup, Murray Bay, Tadoussac, with their life and laughter; the solemn grandeur of Capes Trinity and Eternity, the scenic splendors of the Saguenay, the charms of Chicoutami, Ha Ha Bay and Lake St. John have been the theme of many a pen while the special delights of Cocouana, Bic, Rimouski et al with their weird traditions have been storied again and again.

The artist, the poet and litterateur have vied with one another in immortalizing the distinctive loveliness of the Metapedia Valley, along the Gaspé shore, the numberless fantastic indentations of the Baie de Chaleur, the glories of the Miramichi and the Bay of Fundy; while the Bras D'Or Lakes of Cape Breton and the resorts of Nova Scotia have an atmosphere of romance and pathos inseparable from the scenes of the sorrows of the unfortunate Acadians immortalized by Longfellow. Prince Edward Island has beauties all her own, and when the Western Provinces take up the tale the list becomes interminable. The surprises of the prairies and the western lakes, the mighty masses of the Rockies with their towering, cloud enwrapped peaks, the magic lakes nestling among the foothills, the grandeur of Banff and the great rivers of the newer provinces and British Columbia baffle description. Enough, however, has surely been said to show that this Canada of ours is really one vast summer resort, and the Canadian wherever he resides is within easy distance of some retreat affording rest, recreation and instruction in Nature's school.

Ferndale House, Lake Rosseau, Muskoka, Grand Trunk Railway System

One of the most delightfully situated summer hotels of the Muskoka district, and commanding a view over Lake Rosseau which is unsurpassed in a region noted for its splendid scenery is but a short distance by water from Port Carling, the busy centre of lake navigation, and the famous Indian camp grounds, both of which can also be readily reached by land in a charming twenty minute walk along a path-way winding through entrancing woodland scenery. The steamers of the Muskoka Navigation Co. make calls twice daily at the hotel wharf, and the post office is in the hotel building. Mr. Cope is the general proprietor (For rates, etc., see advt.)
